

<https://calmemanatee.neocities.org/>

Feb. 2024

a zine by Manatee

Welcome to the

Does social media

ever feel overwhelming?
Do you ever wish for
a freer, friendlier,
and more creative
internet?

Maybe you'll enjoy
building your own webpage. Your webpage can be about anything!

Websites are made
with code.

HTML is what you use
to write and format
text, and add
images and links.

CSS helps you make your site look good!

I learned HTML + CSS
from an app called Mimo, but there are many other free resources.

There are many places
to host your website
for free.

I use Neocities.

Other options include
teacake.org and Marigold Town.

Some webhosts,
such as mmm.page,
are drag-and-drop
and don't require coding.

This small, personal corner of the web is known as the indie
web, cozy web, or slow web.

To learn more about the indie web and
meet other website-
makers, check out
Melonland or 32-bit Café.

https://wiki.melonland.net/web_revival

<https://32bit.cafe/>

Happy ★ ★ webweaving! ★

It's okay if learning to code is confusing sometimes.

Coding can be tricky.
Like, really tricky.

Asking for help is totally fine.

